

There are many buildings in town that were built by volunteer labor and John has been a part of them all. One of the most recent projects has been the doctor's house and the biggest is the Millennium Complex. Not only has he helped build it but he is also involved in many fund raising activities for the complex, such as the auction sales.

John taught woodworking in the school for many years and after he retired, he started a woodworking club for adults. 29 people coming from as far as Mather and Mariapolis participated. He was a founding member of the recycling committee and of course, helped build the recycling centre. The Rose Garden has also seen the fruits of his labor as he built the sign and helps maintain the grounds. John has served on the PVL Board in the past; the Church council and maintenance of the church. He has been a part of United Caterers and is a fixture at our Smorgs. He has been a cub and scouts leader and has set up for Rural Form with Bill & Mona Blackburn over the years. When Pilot Mound held its Reunion in 2004, John was there to serve on the committee and he and Bill built the many picnic tables spread out through Pilot Mound, Clearwater and Crystal City.

Pat is shy to talk about her accomplishments but you can tell she is proud to be one of the "bag ladies". She and Freda Collins pick up beer bottles and cans on their daily walks around town and donate the money earned to the Millennium Complex. So far they have contributed over $1500. Pat is a very active member of the United Church, serving as secretary of United Caterers since its inception and is also a member of the UCW and its social committee. She has been on the church council and is currently kitchen convenor in charge of ordering supplies and keeping things ship shape. Pat is also currently on the PVL board and the PVL Foundation. She has been secretary of the advisory committee of Palliative Care since its beginning and serves as volunteer coordinator, as well as being a volunteer herself.

John and Pat, please come forward to accept your well deserved award.
